

EASTERN NEBRASKA SKILLED/LONG-TERM CARE FACILITIES

9/2023 update

WHAT IS LONG-TERM CARE?

Long-term care is a range of services and supports you may need to meet your health or personal needs over a long period of time. Most long-term care is not medical care, but rather assistance with the basic personal tasks of everyday life, sometimes called "Activities of Daily Living," such as:

- Bathing
- Dressing
- Using the toilet
- Transferring (to or from bed or chair)
- Caring for incontinence
- Eating

WHAT ARE NURSING HOMES?

Nursing homes, also called skilled nursing facilities (SNF), provide a range of services, including nursing care, 24-hour supervision, and assistance with Activities of Daily Living. They also offer rehabilitation services such as physical, occupational, and speech therapy. You may only need nursing home services for a short period of time for recovery or rehabilitation after a serious illness or operation. Or you may need longer stays because of chronic physical health problems or cognitive problems (e.g., memory loss) that make it necessary for you to have 24-hour care or supervision.

WHO NEEDS LONG-TERM CARE?

You need long-term care when you are not able to complete personal care or other daily activities on your own. This is most often the result of a chronic illness or disability. In some cases, the illness or disability may include memory loss, confusion, or disorientation, sometimes called cognitive impairment. This can be the result of conditions such as Alzheimer's disease.

QUESTIONS TO ASK WHEN TOURING A NURSING HOME

Touring nursing home facilities in person is an essential part of finding the right facility for your loved one. Many people recommend making multiple visits during your decision-making process. For your first visit, make an appointment with the admissions director to tour on a weekday. Late morning and midday hours are usually the best times to get a feeling for the day-to-day operations of a home.

Watch out for homes with bad smells, residents who are strapped into wheelchairs and staff who seem to ignore the residents. One of the most important things you can do is to talk to the residents and ask how they're doing. Above all, trust your instincts; first impressions matter.

WHAT TO ASK:

- As you visit the nursing home, be sure to ask the admissions director a lot of questions. Don't worry about taking up their time. Verify any information you were told over the phone.
- Is the facility non-profit or for-profit?
- What types of care do they offer?
- Is the facility certified by Medicaid and Medicare?
- What is the average length of stay?
- What are the qualifications of the staff in the therapy department?
- Ask what makes this nursing home different from others.
- Does the facility include family members in resident care plans?

- Ask for recent state inspection survey results. The report should be dated within the last 9 - 15 months.
- Compare the number of deficiencies cited to the state average.
- If the facility has received a citation in a particular service area, be sure to ask questions about this area.
- Beware of choosing a facility with a very high number of deficiencies compared to other facilities in the area and the state average. (Source: A Place for Mom)

NEBRASKA LONG TERM CARE OMBUDSMAN PROGRAM

The Nebraska Long Term Care Ombudsman Program, a program of the Nebraska Department of Health and Human Services, is composed of staff and volunteers who advocate for and on behalf of individuals residing in nursing homes and assisted living facilities. Ombudsmen seek to resolve residents' concerns and improve their quality of care and quality of life. EASTERN NEBRASKA OFFICE ON AGING OMBUDSMAN, call 402-561-2239.

This list was compiled from the State of Nebraska's Roster of licensed Long-Term Care Facilities, Department of Health & Human Services. The Eastern Nebraska Office on Aging does not recommend any facility. This list is for informational purposes only.
